

YOUR CAREER STARS

BY Patsy Bennett www.astrocast.com.au

ARIES

You are ready to make changes in your career, but may wonder how. Developments in January and during the phase from mid-May to mid-September will spotlight areas in your career where you know you could excel. Take steps to broaden your skill set and reach out to the people you know can help you progress. As developments in your career could affect your home life, it's vital you get things right. A true pitfall in 2020 would be on the one hand, trying to build Rome in one day and, on the other, avoiding rocking the boat and therefore changing nothing.

TAURUS

You are looking for stability and security in 2020, and yet to find this in your career, certain changes must occur first. January is an excellent month to plan ahead. The Taurean New Moon on April 23 could be truly motivational, and rocket your career forward. So be proactive with your plans; start strategising now. The mid-year phase will be ideal for reviewing your circumstances once again and for deciding how you'd like to proceed for the remainder of the year. Fresh inspiration or a new project in December will motivate you again to stride forward with new plans.

GEMINI

Don't be afraid to make changes in your career in 2020; you are ready to embrace more experiences and to gain wisdom. You will appreciate the opportunity to learn fresh skills and to use them proactively. In the process, you may need to go out on a limb to show just what you're made of. The end of April may bring an unexpected opportunity your way. Mid-May to mid-June will be ideal for communications of all kinds, so ensure you organise important workshops, meetings and trips then. November and December could be particularly transformative months career-wise.

CANCER

Focus on good relationship skills at work and your career will blossom. If you work in a team or a business partnership, there will be considerable changes within your interpersonal dynamics. These changes may already arise early in the year, and the way you work with others will change considerably by the end of 2020. A sense of restlessness will continue throughout the year - but then so will the chance to accomplish great feats. February's developments will encourage you to embrace a structure at work that could bring you more stability. Your hard work will pay off by August at the least.

LEO

In 2020, you'll wish for more purpose and meaning in your work and in life in general. You'll wish to find more purpose at work than simply earning money to pay bills, rent or a mortgage. March and December will be the best times to make changes at work - and then as a result you will see changes financially. You'll feel ready to push into fresh territory while also being keen to provide security and stability in the shape of a roof over your head. Above all, be open to new opportunities this year and then you will attract them.

VIRGO

A new aspect of your career will appeal and, if you're looking for work, you may be surprised by what you decide to do career-wise. You're ready for more contact with people; for a more upbeat environment, especially in the second half of the year. You'll appreciate the opportunity to add to your skillset and to learn new ideas. Variety and excitement will appeal and so you'll embrace more networking and new social circles to discuss your options and find out how other people work. January, May, June and November-December are key months for taking new avenues career-wise.

LIBRA

This will be an upbeat year career-wise as you will enjoy the opportunity to flap your wings a little in your area of expertise. But if you experience a lull or a lack of direction work-wise, harness your willpower and take steps towards your ideal work scenario: be persistent if at first you do not succeed. January and March are ideal months to improve your career circumstances, but if opportunities do not arise then, take the time to formulate plans for success because mid-year will also be a good time to take steps to improve your career.

SCORPIO

New avenues at work will beckon, and if you've already learnt new skills, this year will be ideal for putting your new skill set to work for you. Considerable opportunities to take your skills to a higher level will arise in March and May, if not before. Your desire to be more self-reliant, if not self-employed, will increase, but you must weigh your domestic duties with work options. The people in your environment will open your eyes to new options. If you feel, by the year's end, that you have still not obtained a goal, December will offer more options, so don't give up!

SAGITTARIUS

You are likely to alter the way you earn money and how you spend it in 2020 as you look for more meaning in life. The first quarter of the year will present opportunities to boost your income, so consider your options carefully. Keep your ear to the ground for new opportunities; some may arise from socialising and networking. Mid-year and September and October are also excellent times to boost career opportunities, so reach out if you are still looking for something that is more purposeful then. Ensure all work agreements are in writing to prevent mix-ups further down the line.

CAPRICORN

You are entering a new, exciting phase as your work takes fresh directions. 2020 is an excellent year to take proactive steps to ditch certain parameters of your work and career that you have outgrown. Adventure and excitement must be a part of your life this year, and you will wish this to reflect in your work. You will gain more independence and this will reflect in the workplace as you gain more kudos and experience. March, April, June, September and December will be the most dynamic months for making changes in your career, as opportunities will knock.

AQUARIUS

Harness your Aquarian ingenuity and lust for life and actively pursue what you want from your career and you will find it in 2020. The eclipses in January and July will open your eyes to new opportunities at work. As you will be looking for more relevance and fulfilment in your career, you will pursue work that resonates deeply with your principles and values, as opposed to work that simply pays bills. March and November will also be pivotal months that could help you to upskill or to step into territory you feel more valued and fulfilled in.

PISCES

Better work prospects are coming your way, so seize opportunities when they arise. Be prepared to direct your career where you want it to go. May, July and August are turning points that could help you make changes, but you are the one holding the reins this year! If you have outgrown your present circumstances, find ways to upskill or apply for new posts. There is an element of trust about moving forward in your career; trust that the universe has your back. But there is a fine line between trust in the universe and foolhardiness. Avoid risking financial loss.
